

1995-96 English Pro Season for SOCCER BLAST Pro Soccer Game:
“The Kids Are All Right!”
(By Neil Maitland, Inverurie, Aberdeenshire, UK)

“You can’t win anything with kids.” Media pundit (and ex-captain of Liverpool and Scottish international) Alan Hansen’s oft mis-quoted phrase from the start of the 1995-96 FA Premier League season. Other teams had dipped heavily into the transfer market to bolster their squads – with Stan Collymore breaking the English transfer fee record in joining Liverpool from Nottingham Forest. Hansen was, however, referring to Alex Ferguson’s young Manchester United side who had just been beaten 3-1 by Aston Villa in the first week of the new season.

Despite the ongoing goal scoring feats of Alan Shearer and Robbie Fowler, the media focus turned quickly to the title battle between Kevin Keegan’s Newcastle United and Ferguson’s Old Trafford side. Newcastle kept the lead into the spring although it had been whittled down from a hefty twelve points and by March, when the Manchester club won at St James’ Park, the gap had come down to a single point. Ferguson’s kids slowly eked out a small lead and managed to secure the title with a necessary win against Middlesbrough on the last day of the season. Young players like Beckham, Giggs, Scholes, Butt and the Neville brothers had contributed greatly to their success.

At the other end of the table, the fates of Bolton Wanderers and Queens Park Rangers were already sealed before the final weekend. Five teams were still fighting to avoid the third and last relegation spot and it was a nervous afternoon for Wimbledon, Sheffield Wednesday, Coventry City and Southampton. However it was Manchester City who were eventually relegated, on goal difference, despite coming from behind to draw 2-2 with Liverpool.

Can you repeat the success of Sir Alex? Or will you be able turn things around for the Geordie faithful? Don’t under-estimate the challenge from both Liverpool clubs, a strong Arsenal side packed with stars and a Villa side with great team chemistry.
